Lawrence, Kan.—Mr. J. F. Stone, of this city, says, "My wife suffered for ten years from womanly troubles, during two years of which she was totally helpless. She was examined by many physicians, some whom gave her up to die. Finally she began to take Cardui, and since then has greatly improved in health. The tonic, strengthening, and restorative effects of Cardui, the woman's tonic on the womanly constitution, are the most valuable qualities of this popular medicine. Cardui acts specifically on the womanly constitution. Half a century of success proves that Cardui will do all that is claimed for it. Try it for your trouble.—Advertisement.

Mr. William Dixon, in his book on hunting, tells some amusing stories. One of them relates to a certain Willy Ecclefield, who was a whipper-in, and who also acted as head groom. He was a fine sporting character, and the story emphasizes his devotion to sport and to his master. One evening he called at the house and asked to see the squire.

"Do you want owt i' t' morn, sir?" he inquired.

"No, Willy, I don't want anything particularly," replied the squire.

"Well, sir, ah was thinkin' of gettin' wed," Willy explained, "but if you want owt, we can put it off!"

The Italians resort to a very simple method when they wish to obliterate the injurious effects of salt air and sunshine after a visit to their villas, the shore of the Adriatic, the Tyrrhenian sea or the lakes. They bathe the face with the white of an egg, well beaten, let it dry on the skin and rinse it off in soft water after fifteen minutes. The treatment is repeated three or four times, and always at night just before retiring.
